HONGRONG, SATURDAY, JANUARY 13, 1894.

ANGLOPHOBIA IN FRANCE.

In all lands blessed with freedom and honesty of the press, the national sentiment may be fairly gauged by journalistic utterances, which, taken as a whole, must be written to suit the public; for of course a paper that flies in the face of its readers cannot live long. At the same time, it is easy enough to understand that the press may lead the public, if the direction of the lead is pleasing in any way. French journalism, however, is a strange problem. It is not consorised, and so might be called "free" in one sense; but on the other hand it is hideously dishonest, as shown by the colossal Panama briberies-not only that this one concern spent millions in corruption, but that such revelations prove a perfect and universal system of black-

are extremely ephemeral; in the East, for instance, hardly a year passes without a "premature death" and an "immature birth" among the half-dozen or so of newspapers in La Belle Colonie, and in the home country it is much the same. Yet, strange as it may seem, the French nation allows itself to be led by the nose by this hare-brained and hungry press, till even the ablest statesmen in the world cannot foresee what madness may not result almost whole earth into confusion. This was, to footing ! a great extent, the cause of the Franco-Prussian war and the loss of the Rhine provinces; and still, in spite of that bitter lesson, France seems no wiser nor steadier, but was on the eve of following Boulanger and his subsidised scribblers into another outburst of insanity; and now again we hear the same old story from Europe, and Tonkin. Whether there is or is not a deep and permanent hatred of "Perfidious Albion" throughout France, is perhaps hard to say. We would like to believe there isnot: certainly there is not in England any great dislike for France, but rather the contrary. We are sorry for this nation of children, always screeching at us, and attacking us when they get a chance; they invariably | all? suffer for their folly, and we bear them no grudge. But it happens that Great Birtain was the stumbling-block to the ambition and arrogance of France's greatest "land-grabbers," the three Louis, and later the LITTLE CORPORAL. In consequence, France probably does hate Englandwith the hatred that a pickpocket has for a policeman. That is why France resents our "" police-patrol" in the Mediterranean; for the great question in European politics, which every year leads to a "war-scare," is the preservation or destruction of the Pax Britannica. At present the French newspapers are full of wild tirades against Britain, apparently arising out of the Siam and buffer-state squabbles. Even the women fling mud. The national sentiment is just now being fired by a budding Main or ORLE INSTRUMED JULIETTE ADAM, whose flerco philippics in a Marseilles journal have been extensively copied. She is of opinion that both France and Russia are menaced by Britain and Germany-which theory. though widely credited, is at once exploded by the fact that France and Russia continue to exist. "In these two countries," says the Amazon spitfire, "a great influence is working, slowly and laboriously, to cripple our development and check our natural expansion '-over other people's possessions! The good lady also considers it a national insult that the Lord Mayor of London in an after-dinner speech referred to M. WADDI GTON as "the English ambassador of the French Republic: he being English by name and parentage, and ambassador to England, besides being one of the best statesmen France ever had. The fatuous female goes on to say that "Britain's seizure of Burmah was the first step towards the conquest of our empire in Indo China (I) and only the outburst of public opinion prevented Great Britain from annexing Siam bodily!" Her argument is that England in some such way stole the French colonies in India; but she forgets that at that time, little over a hundred years ago, it was Louis XV who was the aggressor; he wanted the whole earth and in mere self-defence the other countries had to fight, with the result that all his outlying possessions were picked off. If he had kept gulet, nobody would and which, it is hoped, will arrive in time for the have hurt him, and now also, if only these rabid ranters will mind their own business, no one will interfere. If not, of course it will be our painful duty to again "spank the bad boy."

THE advantages of Protection in a nutshell :-Lower duties on foreign goods, says the N. Y Mail and Express, mean larger imports of such goods. Larger imports of foreign-made goods ohviously mean a distinished demand for home-made goods. I ower duties therefore mean more work abried and 'ess work at home. Leswork means closed mills and less wages.

D'ARC'S Marianette troupe continue to altract big houses at West Point and no stronger evidence as to the excellent merits of the exhibition could be forthcoming than the fact that scores o visitors have been turned away, the scatting accommodation of the Bijm Theatre not being equal to the demand. Special novelties continue to be added to the original programme and altogether no more pleasant way of spending the evening can be invented than by a visit to this cleverly got-up entertxinment.

On this particular occasion, so far as last Saturday's performance of "Princess Toto" was concorned, the cheers and plaudits and vocifirous applicuse-vide the newspapers-were, from a critical and arrivic point of view, unmitigated humbug. The representation of "Princess Toto" as I saw it (and these who know me will fully recognize with what pain I have to pass such a measure of severe condemnation on well meant efforts,) was the most abject ourlesque of sickening tommy-rot I have ever seen presented on the boards of the City Hill Theatre-not even excepting "Rab Ray" of glorious and never-tr-be-lorg tten me ory. MY WATCH AND OTHER WATCHES.

ONE evening last summer I had some writing to do at my house. The weather was very hot, and I took off my coat and waistcoat My new gold watch (that I had naid £30 for) I hald before me on the table, where I could keep an eye on it. Bo far so good. I wrote on, and papers accumulated on the table, one of them covering my watch. Reaching out for something I wanted, my arm accidentally swept it to the floor. Oh, heavens, what luck! I ploted it uptenderly as one picks up a child who has had a had tumble. Was it still running? Yes, faintly ; but as put it to my ear it ticked a few times, feebly an slowly, and then stopped -a dead wetch. A minute ago it was a vital thing-now merely a lot of motionless wheels in a case. What was broken? I couldn't The watchmaker must repair it and return it, with his bill. So much for my stupid carelessness. Yet nobody is so poor as not to carry a more valuable watch than that; one that will run many years without winding. But when it stops, ah! then, who is able to set it going again? Speaking about the one he owns, Mr. Goo. W.

Burton, of Kirton Holme, Boston, says " My heart fluttered in a way to alarm me. Sometimes it was so bad I fanoled I could hear it stop beating." What alled Mr. Burton's heart? Perhaps his lefter will help us to find out. He says:-" In October, bad teste in the mouth, and in the morning my feeth and gums were covered with a thick bloody slime. craving for food, but dars not take solids. It seemed sometimes that my head would burst with pain, and I was so dizzy I could hardly see. After a while a Later on my breathing became very bad, and I would break out into a cold sweat. I kept on growing weaker until it was all I could do to get about, and in this condition I continued for four years. During this time I consulted doctors and used all the different medicines I heard of, but none of them did any good." France's army estimates for 1894 amount to on duty in Europe, P lermo and Stettle and the heart fluttered and palpitated and he had a hacking things. A man might die of any one of them, as

> "In February, 1891, I heard of what Mother Solgel's Curative Syrup had done in similar cases, and determined to try it, so got a bottle from Messra. Grimble and Kent, chemists, Boston. I make this statement in order that others may know where to look for a remedy in an illness like mine."

Signed) "Geo. W. Burron." We resolve at his restoration to health, but what, after all, siled him? Did he have three diseases-visheart complaint, consumption, and asthms ? And, so, how on earth could Mother Seigel's Curative peace of Europe than to carry on a destructive 1,786,738 votes out of a total of 7,702,365, or | Syrup have dured them-each affecting different strant? The answer is, he had but one discare,

For asserting that Prince Bismarck falsified | indigestion and dyspopsis, of which the feeble heart, the famous Ems dispetch that caused the the irritated throat, and the burdened lungs were tell-tales and symptoms. The poisoned blood-diled with deadly solds from the stomach—half paralysed the nerves and thus disordered the heart's action; it also infected the delicate membrane-lining of the lungs and sir passages, producing asthma and the cough that seemed to threaten consumption. One disease, many misleading symptoms-that is the truth; definding physicians, and frightening patients into thinking there is hope.

When life's timepiece runs down no power on earth can wind it up again, but Mr. Burton's case, and thousands more, prove that it is often good for many a year after you thought the works would soon be motionless in the case - [Adnt.
